Circumcisions

Circumcisions are regarded as an elective procedure that may be done by your obstetrician, pediatrician, family practitioner or family practice resident. In choosing a circumcision provider, prospective parents should consult their providers before delivery to be best educated and make the decisions that are best suited to their wishes. The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that every child have that procedure performed in his medical home. Every child should have a medical home which provides pediatric medical services which are age appropriate, accessible, continuous, comprehensive, family-centered, coordinated, compassionate, culturally effective and evidence based in order that he receives highest quality and consistent health care.

You and your child should feel most comfortable under your physician's care in his medical home. By having your child's medical history readily available, it will be easier to make a diagnosis, should problems arise.
